

Chinese Drywall Complaint Center Endorses National Construction Warranty Program Before Starting Repairs On A Toxic Chinese Drywall Home Florida & Gulf States

The Chinese Drywall Complaint Center has been at the forefront of trying to protect homeowners stuck in the US toxic Chinese drywall disaster. In addition, the group has been the leader going after major US banks recklessly selling toxic Chinese drywall foreclosures in places like Florida, or other US Gulf States, as is, without disclosure, that the home is poisonous. The Chinese Drywall Complaint Center has also been going after real estate flippers primarily in Florida, for reselling a toxic home they purchased for penny's on the dollar, to a unsuspecting consumer, who has not heard about the toxic Chinese drywall disaster. The group says, "at this moment its the Wild West when it comes to repairing toxic Chinese drywall homes in Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Virginia, and Southeast Texas. Aside from getting any home in one of these states inspected before you buy it, we are now saying, if you find a home with toxic Chinese drywall, do not try to fix it without using the products, and protocols of the National Construction Warranty Program." The Chinese Drywall Complaint Center says, "it is astonishing that after two years, we have a sitting US President, who has failed to mention the US toxic Chinese drywall disaster one time in public, but sadly that is the case. In scope, the toxic Chinese drywall disaster is worse than the damage done by Hurricanes Katrina, Rita, and Ike all combined, and not one word out of President Obama?" They say, "as a result of putting the imported toxic Chinese drywall disaster on ignore, we now have the atmospherics of the Wild West, and as a result, out of frustration, or panic, innocent homeowners have just walked away from their American Dream, by the thousands, others are stuck not knowing who to turn to, or how to get help." The Chinese Drywall Complaint Center says, "because of the void created by a absolutely pathetic federal response, there were no reasonable rules, or order, when it came to the toxic Chinese drywall disaster for 10,000's of completely innocent US homeowners, or home buyers-until now." The group now says, "before you buy any type of home, in Florida, or any US Gulf State, have it inspected by a home inspector, who knows what to look for with respect to toxic Chinese drywall. If you want to buy a home known to have toxic Chinese drywall, with the intent of repairing it we are endorsing the National Construction Warranty Program, as the only smart way to go."

The Chinese Drywall Complaint Center says, "at this point the National Construction Warranty Program is the only game in town for homeowners, home buyers, or home sellers stuck in the toxic Chinese drywall disaster, or wanting to protect themselves from the disaster in Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Virginia, or Southeast Texas." The National Construction Warranty Program says, "Chinese drywall could be anywhere. CDW was used anywhere drywall was needed. Over 350,000 homes suffered flood or water damage during the 2005 hurricanes alone. Any home that has had an addition or has been remodeled since 2001 could contain it. That's a lot of drywall. Can you afford to take the chance? Call National and get protected at 800-400-8679 to get more information."
